Clinical Knowledge Exchange & Faculty Development

Cleveland Clinic expertise delivered to your institution: best-practice sessions, a member speaker series, visiting professorships, curriculum review and faculty development.

CATEGORY	TYPICAL DURATION	DELIVERY MODEL
Education & Training	1 hour to 6 months, by format	On-site, Virtual, Workshop-based

01 CLIENT NEED

Clients often want targeted access to Cleveland Clinic expertise at their own institution without sending staff abroad, whether on a specific clinical topic, for an event they are hosting, or as teaching for their staff. Medical schools and teaching hospitals building or strengthening their education programs also need an outside, expert view of their curriculum and practical development for the clinicians who teach.

Intended audience: All healthcare staff and leadership; physicians for Visiting Professorships; medical school deans, clinicians and educators for curriculum review and faculty development. The CC Connected Speaker Series is available only to Cleveland Clinic Connected members and select JAC members as an included benefit.

02 CLEVELAND CLINIC VALUE PROPOSITION

Cleveland Clinic clinical leaders share their approach to medicine in their departments and specialties through live sessions, lectures and symposiums tailored to the hosting organization.

Formats range from monthly member sessions and one-hour virtual best-practice sessions to presenter support for a client's own symposium and visiting professorships.

For education programs, Cleveland Clinic's Center for International Medical Education provides a high-level advisory review of medical curricula, identifying strengths, gaps and improvement considerations, and Cleveland Clinic Abu Dhabi offers customizable faculty-development workshops on teaching skills, learner assessment, curriculum design and clinical education.
