Finance

Partnership, Affiliation & Transaction Advisory

An advisory offering that shows leadership what a proposed partnership, affiliation or transaction would cost, return and risk before they commit.

Category
Finance Advisory: Plan Stage (deciding whether and how to invest)

Delivery model
Hybrid, Workshop-based

Client need

Partnerships, joint ventures and acquisitions depend on structure, contributions and governance, and material risks are not always visible in summary materials. It sits in the Plan stage of Cleveland Clinic's five-stage finance advisory lifecycle: deciding whether and how to invest ("Can we do this?").

Questions we help you answer

- What would this partnership, joint venture or acquisition cost, return and risk?
- Which structure works best for each party?
- What should we resolve before we sign?

What you receive

Confirmed at scoping for the arrangement under review:

- Business case and transaction model: strategic fit, contributions and partner economics
- Structure comparison: alternative structures under best, base and downside scenarios
- Due diligence report: findings, material risks and open questions
- Executive presentation: go or no-go recommendation and negotiation points

How it works

1. Discovery: data request, partner materials and interviews
2. Analysis and modeling: model, structures and diligence, reviewed weekly
3. Validation and readout: recommendation tested and presented

Expected outcomes

- ✓ A clear view of cost, return and risk before committing
- ✓ Each partner's economics understood and material risks surfaced early
- ✓ Negotiators armed with scenario-tested numbers